Spotlight On New Faculty

Several new professors and instructors have joined the ever-increasing ranks of the Castleton State College faculty.

Among the first to be announced by Dr. Richard J. Dundas, CSC President, were Dr. Douglas K. Stafford of Rutland, Dr. H. Beveridge Phelps of Burlington, Garold J. Albert of Burlington, and Miss Doris Franklin of Albany.

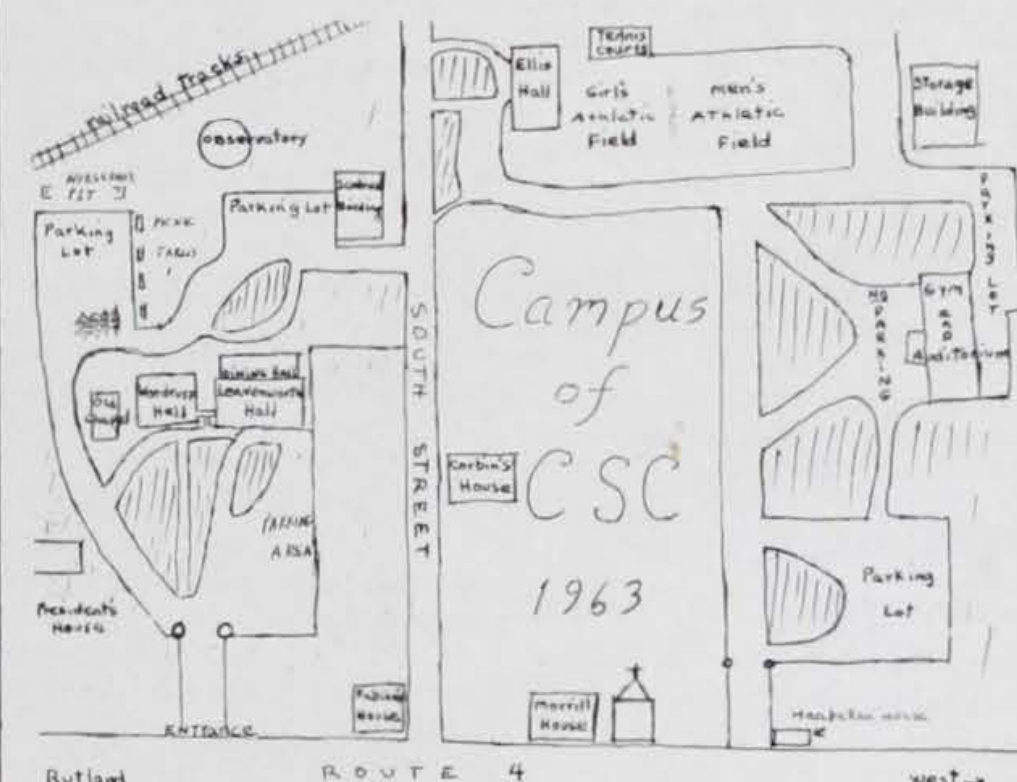

Other appointments this year include Byron G. Avery of Westminster, Maryland; Stephen A. Warde of Howes Cave, N. Y.; John A. Meyers of Landgrove; Thomas J. Adriance of Glens Falls; and Miss Marjorie Ann Meyer of Syosset, L. I., N. Y.

Dr. Stafford will be an associate professor, in philosophy and education. He recently taught English at Rutland High School. He graduated from Howard University in Washington with honors, receiving a B.A. degree, and later received a master's degree from Florida A.&M. He holds a doctorate in education from Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Phelps will be an assistant professor of psychology. He currently is director of the Family and Children's Counseling Service of Burlington and is president of the Vermont Psychological Association. He received a B.A. degree in psychology from Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., and attended the Syracuse University clinical psychology program. He also attended the clinical psychology program at Teachers College, New York City, and was a clinical psychology intern at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver. He was awarded his Ph.D. in 1960.

Albert, who taught at St. Michael's College last year, will be an instructor in sociology and psychology. He received his bachelor's degree in sociology from St. Michael's and a master of arts degree in sociology from the University of Notre Dame. He has completed formal course requirements for the Ph.D. degree at Notre Dame and is now working on his thesis.

Miss Franklin will be an assistant professor of nursing and will instruct medical-surgical courses. She is a graduate of the Brooklyn Hospital School of Nursing, received a B.S. degree from Hunter College and a master's from Teachers College at Columbia.

Avery will teach speech and theater. A graduate of the University of Maine, he received a B.S. degree in teacher education. He studied at the University of Texas and at the University of North Carolina, where he received a master of arts degree in dramatic art. Last year he was an instructor in dramatic arts and English at Western Maryland College.

Warde will replace Calvin Grass in the science department. He received a B.S. degree in physics from Alfred University and a master's degree from Syracuse University. He has been editor for General Electric Co., working on Army-Navy instruction manuals. Among his teaching experiences, Warde has coached track teams.

Meyers will teach English. He replaces Donald Clayton who is on a leave of absence. He received a B.A. from Dartmouth College and a master's degree from the University of Vermont.

Adriance, also a Dartmouth graduate, where he received his B.A. degree, magna cum laude, will teach History. He also attended Sweet Briar College in Virginia and took an academic year at the Sorbonne and the Institut des Sciences Politiques in Paris.

Miss Meyer will teach courses in nursing. She is a graduate of Mount St. Mary's College and the Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing in Manchester, New Hampshire. She holds a B.S. degree and a master's degree in guidance and education.

New Basketball Coach Also Joins Faculty

The Spartans will have a new basketball coach this season, according to Dr. Dundas. Dr. Max Cogan, who has coached and been a physical education instructor at Queens College, Sarah Lawrence College, and most recently, Jersey City State College, joins the CSC Athletic Department this fall. This will allow T. Richard Terry, who has coached past basketball quintets at CSC, to devote his coaching efforts to the soccer team. Cogan received his B.S. from Central State College of Connecticut and a masters from New York University. He received a doctorate in education from Teachers College, Columbia University.

His background is an interesting one. He was educational supervisor in a prisoner of war camp in Korea and recreation director of juvenile prisoners in Bronx City Prison, Bronx, N. Y. He has taught in junior high and high schools.

Joining the ranks of the administration is Charles B. Gulick, 3rd of Springfield.

Spirit High In Class Of '67

By An Anonymous Member

Of The Orientation Committee

Sunday, September 8th, was a big day for Castleton State College. The reason being that the class of '67 had finally arrived bringing with them turmoil and confusion. Nevertheless, their new faces topped by a straw hat were a welcome sight. Officially met by the calm and efficient Orientation Committee, each one soon felt completely at home and at ease, although somewhat dependent upon two yellow sheets of paper which kept them in the right place at the right time. By the end of two weeks on campus, each will have formed many friendships and made their own little niche in the area of Castleton College life.

So, Upperclassmen, take advantage of the beanie-bearers while they are still green for soon they will be as orientated as thou.

The Freshman Class By The Numbers

Number enrolled—174
From Vermont—125
From New York—27
From Massachusetts—7
From New Jersey—3
From New Hampshire—1
From Canal Zone—1
From Florida, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut—1 each
Also 22 Transfer Students enrolled, and 23 are in the School of Nursing.

Liberal Arts

A Liberal Arts program in which students completing their sophomore year may transfer to the University of Vermont for their last two years, will be started this fall at CSC.

The program is now open to a small number of students because of lack of space, but students interested in further information about the program may contact Dean Charles W. Wright for details. Last year a nursing curriculum was initiated and a large number of students are now enrolled in both the first and second years of this course of study.

It's Ahead For The Leathermen

By John Duval

I sit here writing this article, in somewhat of a hurry, I am flanked by rather tired and lame young men. They are two of some forty odd athletes who have shown up for early soccer practice prior to the opening of the regular school year. It has been evident from the start that it will take a lot of hard work to duplicate the highly successful season enjoyed by the Spartans last year. The skills and hard kicking of such men as Pietryka, Memoe, Brooks, Hastings, and others are sorely missed. There is, however, a strong nucleus of returning lettermen which Coach Terry is molding into this year's team. They include Bucky Knisley, Charlie Wood, Peter Mecina, Danny Hudson, Mike Kingsbury, and Art DeLorenzo. A number of Freshmen show promise and a couple of them will undoubtedly win starting berths. There are a number of upperclassmen and transfer students who have had experience and they also shall count heavily in the success of this year's team.

On the whole it appears that the outlook is favorable for the Spartans. The season will be long and hard, but if the boys can continue to exhibit the spirit they have shown thus far, they should meet with considerable success. There are four pre-season scrimmages with the Alumni, Middlebury and Dartmouth, as well as a "B" Team game, before the opening of the regular season against Howard on September 28, at home. Howard finished third in the NCAA national championships last year and is reported to have a fine team this year. This could easily be the toughest game played all year.

If the student body gets out and gives them the support they deserve, the "63" Spartans' soccer team should fare well. If they see that their school is behind them all the way, CSC just may be NAIA champions this year!

First Impression

As my parents and I drove through the main gates we were greeted by the sight of a double U-haul. We felt that our load was light in comparison and we were encouraged.

I went into the dorm and found where my room was. I was told that being a female member of the freshman class was a privilege. I would have a host of handsome muscle men help me move in. I was thankful for the help but gee, some of those guys had awfully funny looking straw hats on.

Once my bag and baggage was in, I had a chance to look around. I noted that my roommate, who had come and gone, had three dresses identical to mine. One thing I could say for her, she had good taste.

When things were fairly well settled, we decided to register. I asked a "green ribbon wearer" where to go and she immediately answered, "Do you have a dollar?" After a few more instructions, I found myself in front of a desk with two very friendly girls sitting behind it. They giggled as they gave me papers, giggled when they gave me a hat and broke into a glorious smile when they gave me a tag. What a cheerful group! I then sat down to read the papers and these lovely girls turned into Mr. Hydes yelling, "DON'T SIT IN THE SOFT CHAIRS!!!"

I can't help wondering what else is in store . . .

That New Freshman Beanie!

This September brings the arrival of the latest in fashion millinery at Castleton State. The new look for freshmen has swung from the traditional green beanie to the look of the country club set. This hat could best be described as the typical straw hat with an added colorful band and the CSC Class of '67 emblem. The new hat has been highly accepted by both freshmen and upperclassmen.

Summer School Draws Over 100 Students

The University of Vermont Summer school was offered once again on the CSC campus this summer and drew 107 students who spent six weeks studying in both graduate and undergraduate work.

Dr. Winthrop Tilley, Dr. Robert Patterson, Dr. Clara Walker and Dean Charles W. Wright made up the staff along with two visiting professors, Dr. Harry Ordan and Frank Steeves.

"Bea" Prichard served coffee and doughnuts between classes which were held during morning hours. With the absence of food service during the summer, the students either broke out with picnic lunches or ate at eating establishments about the community. It was reported that all in all, an interesting six weeks was had by the student body in the informal atmosphere of summer session 1963 at CSC.

field. Gulick has taken on the duties of Student Activities Director and Bookstore Manager. He is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire and has served as 4-H Club agent in Windsor and Windham Counties. He served two years in the Army and most recently was associated with Radio Station WLNH in Laconia, New Hampshire. He replaces C. Justin Crowley who resigned the post early this summer.

Flexible Flyer Dies

A new fifteen-passenger airport coach will replace the old bus which all upperclassmen will long remember with its numerous breakdowns on practically all trips of the past years. The retiring bus, which seats 37 passengers, has served the campus for three years.

The new coach will be used in conjunction with the other two station wagons, each of which seat nine people.

Students wishing to attend future away games will have to plan charter bus service by a bus firm hired by the student association.

C. S. C. Has New Activity

The opinion is held by many on campus that the production of a literary magazine by the students is a worthwhile project.

Not since the mid-forties has an attempt been made to produce a magazine of literature. Now there has been a much-needed revival of enthusiasm; the basis of Castleton's literary magazine is now being laid.

What can you as a student do? Mainly, you can show honest enthusiasm for a project which will certainly speak well of the students of Castleton State College. Do not hesitate to submit any type of creative literature which you have written. Encourage your friends to submit their creative endeavors, and if you wish, join the staff of the magazine itself. The way in which you may submit writings will be announced shortly.

Whether or not this is a project which is of interest to you is not of great importance. What is of importance is that you as a student of Castleton State College show a certain amount of respect and enthusiasm for a project which is representative of our creative abilities, and in so doing, promote intellectual creativity and insure pride in our college.

Senate News

After some unfortunate complications, the Castleton State College Student Senate seems about ready to begin work for the school year. Two pilot meetings have been held in the last two weeks during which most of the problems concerning the reorganization of the student government have been ironed out. One of the major problems which had to be faced this fall was the election of a new S.A. president. Although elections were held last spring, the duly elected president, Ed Dolphin, could not take office because of academic deficiency. Another matter was the election of Senate members from the Sophomore and Junior classes. By Tuesday, October 1, the election results will be in and the new president and members announced. On Wednesday, October 2, the first official meeting of the Student Senate will be held.

Two issues already have been given considerable attention in the pilot meetings. One of the most important is the petition now before the Senate presented, at the last meeting, by the newly founded Castleton Literary Club. This organization is asking for funds for the publication of a literary magazine here on campus. The club is well organized and it appears that the prospects for its success are quite favorable. The lack of sufficient laundering facilities on campus has also been brought to the Senate's attention.

PERSONAL COMMENTARY

by John Duval

Before I close I would like to add one comment. Our student government is unique, in comparison to that of many colleges, in that the meetings are open to the entire student body. Although only the elected members are allowed to vote any student may speak from the floor. It is the opinion of this reporter that if more of the "grippers" on this campus would come to the Senate meetings, instead of simply complaining on the outside about how ineffectual our student government is, then we would have a much more powerful and effective organization. This is your government. Now if you are thinking that that last phrase sounds trite explain to yourself why this is the case.

High Society

by Darien DeLorenzo

Decisions! Decisions! Decisions! Everyone is making decisions. This is a major sign that HOMECOMING is coming upon us this weekend. Under the careful management of co-chairmen Mary Lou Gallagher and Dick Singleton, Homecoming is beginning to turn into a reality. The committee chairmen this year are as follows:

Decorations: Ann Bellerjeau

Hayride: Kathy Dwire

Variety Show: John Duval

Refreshments: Judy Heebner, Roy Mordhorst

Publicity: Darien DeLorenzo, Sharon McLeod

Pancake Breakfast: Sam Pagano

Invitations: Sandy Mattison, Sue Brown

Parade: Ronnie Butterfield

Set-Up: Paul Wasklewicz

One most important event of the weekend is the voting for the Queen. This is to be held Wednesday, October 2, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Every student on campus is eligible to vote for the Queen of his, or her, choice, according to the names on the ballots. The lucky girl chosen Queen will be crowned Wednesday night on the steps of Woodruff Hall. She will reign over all of the scheduled events throughout the weekend.

The Variety Show on Thursday night, October 3 is for all students. Any student, with or without talent, who cares to participate will be invited. Anyone wishing to show off some great talent they want to let the world know about must notify John Duval.

Cold as it may be on Friday night, October 4 the Hayride should prove to be great fun. The hay wagons will leave from in back of Woodruff Hall at 7:30 p.m. A Jazz Party will be held after the hayride at the Bomoseen Grange at 8:45 p.m.

Saturday, October 5 is the date set for the rival Soccer game between Castleton State College and Fitchburg State College. All upperclassmen will remember the New England playoffs between these same two teams last November, with Castleton coming out victoriously 1-0. This victory enabled the Spartans to play in the N.A.I.A. tournament in Indiana. Naturally, Fitchburg will be out for a win.

Before the soccer game there will be a Parade of all class floats, the cheerleaders, the Queen, and her Court. The parade will depart from behind Woodruff Hall, proceed down Main Street, and then back to the soccer field. Two plaques will be awarded to the class with the best float, and to the Queen, at half-time. Music will be provided by the Poultney High School band.

Saturday night (8:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.) will be the Homecoming Dance to be held at the gymnasium. The theme of the dance is "High Society" and Dick Perry's Orchestra will entertain for the evening. The Decoration Committee is busy preparing for the weekend's highlight event, and is welcoming volunteers at the gym anytime between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. each evening before the dance.

The two co-chairmen have been working quite hard trying to make this year's Homecoming a big success.

P.S. All of the events during Homecoming are free of charge. In order for Homecoming to be a success the support of the entire student body is needed. With enthusiasm from everyone, Homecoming 1963 could be the most successful ever at C.S.C.

C. C. C.'s Band

by Norrita Clemens

The Castleton Symphonic Band, under the direction of Mr. Richard Diehl, has started rehearsing on Wednesday nights from seven to nine p.m. The college has been most generous in providing this group with new instruments and equipment. The band has added new music to its repertoire by such composers as Richard Rodgers, Vincent Persichetti, Howard Hanson, Giovanni Gabrieli, and Heitor Villalobos. Plans are underway to give two concerts this year, instead of one as in previous years. Members of the band

The Weakest Link In Congress

by Peter Marsh

Since its inception as a special committee in 1938, the House Committee on Un-American Activities has pursued a hectic, if not always admired, course. During most of December, 1949 there were insistent demands that the committee be eliminated entirely. By the time Congress met, House leaders decided that elimination would be too drastic for many Congressmen, and they were working out ways to insure a more responsible membership. They felt that eliminating the committee would look like a pro-communist move because the idea behind the committee is the removal of all subversive elements. The Democratic Committee on Committees was selected to do the cleaning up. They were assigned the task of candy-coating the Un-American Activities Committee so that it would, again, be presentable to the public. What they did was to pass two laws that released two members of the committee. Many felt that the reason for their release was imbedded in "word from Moscow." Meanwhile, Robert Stripling, chief investigator of the committee, resigned quietly and accepted a much lesser post in Texas. Dirt was coming to the surface, but the American public paid little attention, and the press soon forgot about it.

The American public was willing to forget one of the most stirring mistakes in Congressional history. They were willing to forget what had just been headlines, and take the chance that it might happen again. What is worse, they were willing to go on paying ten million dollars a year for a government version of a kangaroo court.

To exemplify what I mean, take the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon. The committee spent three years and six million dollars trying to prove the man a communist. They ended up in public apology to Dr. Condon, and a red face to show for it. If you would like to ready this story in full, consult Congress at Work, by Bailey and Samuel.

The investigatory excesses of the Un-American Activities Committee have brought an increasing flood of protest from the public, and from its own members. The committee was, in fact, subjecting innocent citizens to character smears, and facing them with incorrectly based accusations. Two of the committee members resigned after the Condon case. They both denounced the committee and its activities. One of the two was ex-Vice President Richard Nixon. Others who have denounced the committee include: 125 scientists, nine Nobel prize winners, a large group of Congressmen, and in 1961, a Dartmouth College Senior named David Williams. Williams challenged them on the Laurence Duggan Case, the Irving Fichman case, and on many more. The committee took very little time in beating Mr. Williams. They simply implied that he was a communist sympathizer, and thereby ended all bad publicity.

During the middle 1950's the committee began finding opposition in the colleges across the country. College students stood up and challenged the committee's positions. The solution came in the form of a movie called Operation Abolition. In this movie student groups protesting the actions of the committee are labeled as communist led. They take special pride in showing you the so-called leaders of the "willing pro-communist student group."

A week ago this scene was re-enacted in Washington, when students protesting the Cuban travel hearings were thrown bodily from the committee hearing rooms. In some cases students were, in fact, hurled down the front steps of the Capitol Building.

The fact that the communists are in favor of the abolition of the committee is well known. The reason being, that such a scandalous story about our Congress would make excellent propaganda. The fact that students realize the messy doings for what they are worth should not label the students as communist sympathizers.

In my opinion it is high time that the committee was changed; remodeled, and set into a pattern of justice. It is time that the American people decided not to spend millions of dollars to investigate the Women's Peace League. It is time we stopped supporting a kangaroo court that has a bad habit of calling anything that it doesn't like, communist. From all points of view it is one committee that has lived up to its name; it truly is Un-American.

From The Office Of The President

A note of interest to C.S.C. students and also a justification of why Vermonters should help to support their institution of higher learning concerns the amount of money the average student at C.S.C. spends in Vermont, other than tuition, room and board, for the school year.

The average C.S.C. student spends $680 on various items and entertainment. A survey showed that $100 was spent on clothing; $20 on toilet articles; $10 on medical fees; $26 on supplies—notebooks, pens, etc.; $80 on books; $50 on laundry; $200 on recreation, three-fourths of which is spent in a 25 mile radius of Castleton; $100 for transportation; and $100 on food and cigarettes.

If one takes this $680 and multiplies it by the 500 students at C.S.C. it totals $340,000 spent in Vermont every year by college students. This does not include the amount spent by the faculty of this college. Why should Vermonters groan when asked to contribute to higher education?

The holes being dug on campus are a wondering concern to many C.S.C. students. To put everyone's mind at rest, these holes are test borings being made by an engineering firm from Burlington to determine whether the sub-soil is strong enough to hold multi-story buildings for the additions C.S.C. is planning to add.

Two new dormitories and a dining room are being planned to be built near the gymnasium. The new library will be located north of the science building.

Castleton Players

by Jeanne Sihler

Will the townspeople of Gullen kill Herr Schill??? To find out the answer you must come to the play called "The Visit" which will be presented by the Castleton Players late in October.

The plot becomes involved and interesting as the play progresses through three acts.

In the leading female role of Clara Zachanassian is a newcomer to Castleton—Mary Jane January. Mary Jane hails from Vergennes and was in the winning play of a one-act play contest held each year in Vermont. Jonathan Corbin will once again exhibit his acting talent in the male lead of Herr Schill, a leading citizen of the small town in Germany. Roger Clarino plays the part of the Burgomaster with all the satiric skill which the role requires. Other members of the cast include Pat Pietryka as Frau Schill, Jeanne Dixon as her daughter, Peter Marsh as the doctor, Craig Cooke as the teacher, Alun Pritchard as the policeman, David Murray as the painter, Ed Garron and Vic Sgambato as two blind

The Student Nurses Association is a voluntary organization for all student nurses. Its purpose is to help further students in their present and future work. It also serves as a club for all students to talk and meet others from all over the state.

An annual convention is held each year for students throughout the United States to get together. The most modern and newest methods of nursing care are demonstrated at this convention.

Officers for C.S.C. Student Nurses Association are: President, Grace Dennehey; Vice-President, Marcia Tumielewicz; Secretary, Irene Stedman; Treasurer, Alice Citapenci; Publicity Chairman, Betty Terrien; and Social Chairman, Marty Barrows.

Plans are underway for several activities which will be held at various times throughout the year.

Since a new class has just entered the program, progress will surely be made for C.S.C.'s Student Nurses Association.

Speaking Of Sports

ON THE SUBJECT OF SCHOOL SPIRIT—AGAIN:

This topic is by far the most worn out in the school's history. It has been harped on by editorials in our newspaper as well as in the classroom by some of our more loyal faculty and at Senate and student body meetings. Yet, there is a great deal to be desired in the line of spirit. The Cheerleaders held their first pep rally Wednesday night and to the disgust of many, a hand full appeared to support the team which finished third in a national tournament last year. Yes, third in the country for small colleges. And they did it while a great many of us were watching T.V. in the Rec Room or going home to see the family on the weekend. I realize we weren't number one last year, but I think number three warrants at least 100 people including players, coaches, cheerleaders and an ambitious dog! That is only one-sixth of the student population.

I can almost hear the arguments in return: "I have to work"; "I never saw a soccer game before"; "I have a lot of homework to do." Nuts! What about the players? Don't they have the same problems? And they have to practice every day. You only have to go to the games. This year the school has even provided bleachers for spectators who have used the "no facilities for fans" excuse last year. This, by far, does not only pertain to soccer, it also pertains to our other sports. That's it folks, give my regards to Mom and Dad this weekend.

Intramural Athletics

by Bob Parro

Athletic Association Coordinator

The intramural program at Castleton will be expanded this year by the addition of touch football. By the time this article is printed it is hoped that the program will be in full swing.

This year the intramural program will be run much differently than in the past as there is a fine physical education staff which has consented to be the advisers for the program. Mr. Terry, Mr. Lepley, and Dr. Cogan have offered as much time as is needed to help the student body have a good one. Dr. Cogan has stated that he will conduct a clinic in tennis for the student body if enough are interested.

The intramural program will be set up with each house on campus having one representative on an intramural committee which will set up rules and make decisions on the program. The committee also will have representation from the commuters and the number will be decided according to the interest shown.

C.S.C. students are lucky to have such a fine person as John Pellitier, who has consented to the use of the gym on week nights. If this arrangement works out satisfactory the gym may be open at certain times throughout the weekend. This will give those who would like a couple of hours recreation before turning to studies.

Any suggestions or ideas would be greatly appreciated by the committee which states, "Let's make this the best intramural program ever!"

School Publications

FRESHMEN! Did you work on your high school newspaper? Did you help in the publication of your yearbook?

UPPERCLASSMEN! Do you want to see more and better issues of the Spartan? Would you like a bigger Castleton with more pictures?

The first meetings of the paper and yearbook staffs were, to say the least, sparsely attended. It's an old and time worn phrase around this campus, but these are YOUR student publications and it's up to YOU to see that they are good. This requires some active interest and participation on the part of the student body.

I'm sure you will admit that you like to read the Spartan and find out the news of the campus; you like to take home a Castleton in the Spring to look over and reminisce about the year gone by. Well, needless to say, these publications just don't materialize out of the blue.

At present, the college the yearbook is in a sad situation. It lacks an editor and even anyone interested in the job.

What can you do personally to remedy these conditions? You can come to Spartan and Castleton meetings when they are called and you can bring friends, send your friends, or drag your friends with you!

We need typists, layout editors, business managers, senior editors, reporters, advertising managers, photographers, etc., etc. So put your talent to work and be rewarded by contributing to bigger and better student publications! —The Editors

Having lost seven members from last year's squad, Spartan mentor Richard Terry faces the task of rebuilding the entire team. The team of last year went to the N.A.I.A. tournament after suffering only one defeat. The defeat was to Fitchburg State College by a score of 2-1. The Spartans then defeated Fitchburg in the N.A.I.A. playoffs by a score of 1-0.

The main problem with this year's team is inexperience. The line play and the offensive punch of the Spartans has not come up to Coach Terry's expectations. The team has worked hard and Terry said, "The team has improved steadily during recent practice sessions."

Spirit High

Team spirit seems to be high in spite of losses in three scrimmages. Coach Terry feels that if the team spirit remains high they should make a strong bid for the New England Conference Title and also for a N.A.I.A. playoff. Coach Terry believes that one of their toughest conference games will be against Fitchburg on Homecoming weekend. This should prove to be an interesting return match for both teams.

Schedule

The Spartans will play a 12-game schedule. All home games will be played at C.S.C. soccer field. This past Saturday the Spartans hosted Howard University. Coach Terry feels that the team will be ready for its first conference game this weekend. As of now it is impossible to make any predictions. Time will tell the story.

The Women's Athletic Association opened the 1963-1964 season with a meeting September 24, to elect officers who are: President, Mary Jane Bosworth; Vice-President, Karen Wolfe; and Secretary-Treasurer, Linda Beckwith. Representatives from Leavenworth Hall and Ellis Hall will be elected later this week at House meetings. The new officers will attend a Sport's Day Conference in Montpelier on Saturday. Miss Josephine Chapla, faculty advisor to the association, will accompany the girls.

During the meeting, this year's schedule was discussed. The girls will participate in such sports as field hockey, tennis, basketball, softball and volleyball. They will compete with several Vermont colleges including Green Mountain, Trinity, Middlebury, Lyndon, and Johnson.

At the Spring Athletic Banquet awards will be given out to those girls who have accumulated 50 points for a Letter award, 100 points for a Silver Bar award, or 125 points for a Gold Bar award.

The point system for the W.A.A. is as follows:

Practice—75% attendance required for credit	1 point
Intercollegiate game participation	2 points
Playday or Sports Day participation	3 points
Manager of a sport	3 points
Assistants to the manager of a sport	1 point
Official of a game	1/2 point
Timer	1/2 point
Scorer	1/2 point
Officer of W.A.A.

Vice-President	4 points
Secretary-Treasurer	4 points
Dorm representative	1 point

Intramural game participation	1 point
Winner of individual intramural competition	1 point
Winner of team intramural competition (each member)	1/2 point

To be eligible for an award a student must maintain a C index.

S.C.A. is a movement which expresses the life and mission of the Church on the campus. At C.S.C. the program this year concerns the question of where or whether the college world fits into the Church. The aim is to challenge the campus by Christian concern for a renewed personal life and a new manner of living.

S. N. E. A.

The purpose of the Student National Education Association is to provide a well adapted and much needed background into the importance and understanding in assuming a professional position. Those C.S.C. students with teaching experience will meet together with Mr. Johnson to discuss problems confronting teaching. However, membership does not exclude underclassmen... all students preparing to teach are invited to attend these informal critiques. Meetings will be announced well in advance with the sincere hope that the C.S.C. student body realizes what an invaluable aid and core of the college S.N.E.A. should be and can become.

Ellis Hall

Ellis Hall has opened its doors to another school year. Under the supervision of Mrs. Cassin and the house officers, everything seems to be running smoothly. The house officers are: President—Fran Cizmada, Vice President—Norita Clemens, Secretary—Nancy Layden, Treasurer—Pat Di-Cristofaro, and Fire Warden—Cindy Smith.

Two house meetings have been held. Discussed mainly were late-leave regulations and other house rules, and the desire for more Coke in the vending machine on second floor.

Remodeling of the Hall has been resumed. Carpeting purchased for some rooms, bedspreads and curtains for others, and a couple of ambitious freshmen are even painting around their windows.

Aside from fire alarms, homework, early morning hikes, and dates, which have created many weary girls, Ellis Hall is as normal as ever.

Alpha Lambda

On September 11, 1963, the first meeting of Alpha Lambda was held in Woodruff Hall. New members chosen last May on the basis of scholarship and leadership were:

Jeanne Sihler Henry Burnham
Kathy Ross John Witalec
Pamela Fisher Laura Carner
Alberta Severy Mary Jean Cotrupi
Members serving their second year are Jonathan Corbin, Sandra Cook, and Paul Wasklewicz.

Elections were held for the coming year with Mary Jean Cotrupi elected Chairman, Alberta Severy, Secretary and Mr. Brann as club advisor.

What Do You Think?

by John H. Duval

Hello again. Yes—it's me, your friendly student psychiatrist. It's been quite a while since I have had a chance to talk with you. When I first began this series of articles last spring I talked, for the most part, about student apathy on this campus as well as commenting on various paradoxes which I found in evidence. I explained at that time that what I wanted to do here was give an edited running account of student opinion and ideas on this campus. My initial effort seemed to be favorably received so I shall continue where I left off.

Things are different this year, aren't they? I don't know how many times I have heard that phrase, in one form or another, in the numerous conversations I have had with various upperclassmen, on campus and "off," so far this fall. The lunch line seems endless. The student who owns a car is finding it increasingly hard to find a parking space on campus. There seems to be about twice as many students in the classroom as there were last year. It is not uncommon for a student to spend fifty or sixty dollars for his textbooks. A number of new faces are in evidence on the faculty, many with very impressive educational records. And to top it all off, the Castleton State College attendance record at the Manor has shown a significant decline.

Yes, things are different this year. The face of our college is rapidly changing. There is still student unrest; still much that appears to warrant dissatisfaction, if nothing else. But along with this is an air of expectation. The standard guffaws which have, in the past, greeted comments on the new facilities we are supposed to get are fewer in number and much less hardy than they were a year ago. We are going to have that new dining hall, the new dormitories, increased library and athletic facilities, and we are going to have much of that before the present freshman class has graduated. This is a challenge to the class of '67. You are going to have to live up to your opportunities. By the time you graduate the whole color of this school will have changed. I am not going to give you the same line about this being the most important four years of your life to date, which you have heard many times in the last few weeks. I only want to say that you will never regret any amount of physical and mental labor which you put into your formal education. You are going to get out of this school just exactly what you put into it. Most of you now have a great deal more freedom of choice in matters directly concerning you than you have ever had before. Along with

Student Loans

The loans of college students at C.S.C. were fulfilled this semester on September 23. So far the college has received only 53% of what it asked for from Vermont State.

Senator Prouty, however, is working on the Amendment to the National Defense Education Act, and has recommended an increase of state aid to Vermont colleges and schools. This recommendation still has to go to the Full Committee of Labor, Education and Welfare of the Senate, then to the Senate itself, and then to the House of Representatives to be voted on.

If Senator Prouty's recommendation goes through, more money for loans will be appropriated for Students of Castleton next semester.

To all of you, freshmen and upperclassmen, let me wish you all good luck in this new school year. The time will go fast, very fast. Don't waste it in an easy chair in the "Rec Room."

Homecoming A Success

by Jeanne Sihler

The four-day festivities of Homecoming 1963 began on Thursday night, October 3rd with a Variety Show. John Duval was Master of Ceremonies for the six-act presentation which included comedy, music, dancing and singing acts.

The queen was announced and crowned after the Variety Show instead of Wednesday night as originally planned due to an unusual event—a tie between two of the candidates. The votes for Judy Newton and Ann Bellerjeau were taken again and Ann Bellerjeau was elected. The three other candidates also were introduced Thursday night: Sheila Smyrski, Nancy Archbold and Jonica Stedman.

Friday night found many students headed West to Castleton Corners on a wagon of hay to attend the Jazz Concert at the Grange. Elaine Juare was tractor driver for the occasion and provided the hayriders with a smooth but cool ride!

Saturday morning the town of Castleton was awakened with the sound of hammers banging at 7:00 a.m. as the four classes fought the clock to finish their floats for the parade at 1 o'clock. The workers took a break between 9:00 and 11:00 to eat some pancakes at the Newman Center. Chefs Sam Pagano, Ken Perrotte, Pete Messina and Bruce Wright were kept busy as the hungry workers piled in for the delicious pancakes. John Duval and Chuck Wood were on hand to provide breakfast music with their guitars. Mrs. Robert Patterson assisted the group with the popular event.

The parade was delayed for 20 minutes, but finally got under way as two convertibles lead the way carrying the queen and her attendants. The Freshman Float depicted "Rags to Riches" with a clever money tree to carry out the theme of High Society. The Sophomore float was an array of pink and white napkins with Cotillion spelled out on the sides. Lorraine Lake, Sue Brown and Jan Obey were dressed in cocktail dresses and were seated on a deck of grass. The Junior float met with disaster, however, seeing the futility of the situation, Vic Sgam-

"The Visit" Opens Oct. 30th

The Visit, first produced in New York at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre on May 5th, 1958, and then starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, will be recreated for Vermont audiences on October 30th and 31st. The Castleton Players of Castleton State College will present the suspenseful drama under the able direction of Saul Elkin. The play is a terrifyingly chilling account of a woman's attempt to force a town into crime for her own revenge.

The leading roles in the production have been given to Johnathan Corbin, a senior from Castleton, who will portray Anton Schill; and to Mary Jane January, a freshman from Vergennes, who will play the part of the revengeful Claire Sachanassian.

Mr. Corbin will be remembered for many previous roles with the Castleton Players. Included among these roles are: performances in The Lesson, Our Town, and more recently in Murder in the Cathedral, as Mr. Zues in MacLeish's J.B., and as the Reverend Samuel Parris in the Green Mountain College production of The Crucible.

Miss January is no newcomer to the stage either. Although this is her first play with the Castleton Players; in high school she appeared in roles in Goodnight Caroline, Doctor's Orders, Magnificent Obsession, and as Grandma in Anastasia. Last spring, while a senior in high school, she played the role of Catherine in The Heiress, and won all-state cast recognition in the state one act play contests.

Other players appearing in The Visit, who will be recalled from past productions are: Roger Clarino, a senior from Proctor, as the burgomaster, and who appeared in Murder in the Cathedral, and J.B.; Peter Marsh, a sophomore from Rutland, who plays the teacher, and who has been seen in area productions of The Player Queen, The Pleasure of His Company, and in Castleton's J.B.; Pat Pietryka, a senior from Castleton, who will play Frau Schill, and who played the female lead in J.B.; Sally Briscoe, a senior from Nyack, New York, who will play a townswoman; Richard Rouseau, a junior from Rutland, who will play a painter; and Ed Garron, a junior from Springfield, who portrays Claire's fiancé.

Newcomers in their first performances with the Castleton Players will be: Craig Cooke, a sophomore from Schenectady, N. Y., as the doctor; David Lucia, a sophomore from Monson, Mass., as the pastor; Phillip Henderson, a sophomore from Springfield, as a townsman and a reporter; Jack Schnorr, a freshman from Stamford, Conn., as a townsman; Vic Sgam-bato, a junior from Gloversville, N. Y., and Ron Butterfield, a junior from Chester, as blind men; Alun Pritchard, a sophomore from Poultney, as the policeman; Viola Roberts, a junior from Poultney, as a townswoman; Seeley Morton, a sophomore from Springfield, as the son; Jeanne Dixon, a junior from South Glens Falls, N. Y., as the daughter; and Alan Ball, a freshman from Westport, Conn., as the athlete.

The curtain will go up at 8:00 p.m. on both nights at the Ellis Fieldhouse Gymnasium. Admission is free and the public is invited.

DORIAN QUINTET

Judi Kamberg

CSC formally began its Second Annual Artist Series with the performance of the Dorian Quintet on Monday evening, October 14, in the gymnasium-auditorium.

John Perras (flute), Charles Kuskin (oboe), William Lewis (clarinet), Jane Taylor (bassoon), and William Brown (French horn), composed the quintet. They played a series of three classical pieces by Haydn, Reicha, and Beethoven, and a group of contemporary pieces by Hindemith.

The Dorian Quintet has been organized as a professional group for two and a half years and during that time they have toured the United States as well as Europe. After completing a two-week tour of the New England area, they will perform in Africa under the sponsorship of the U. S. Department of State.

Constitution Not Ratified

by Geraldine Nelson

On October 22 the student body met in the auditorium to witness the swearing in of the Student Association officers for 1963-64. The director of student activities, Terry Gulick, gave us a brief resume of his duties of his office. At this time also, the Constitution was to be ratified. John Duval, president of the Student Association, presided over the proceedings.

Due to the fact that many students had not received or read a copy of the Constitution, it was voted to postpone the ratification until Tuesday, October 29. At this time students will vote "yea or nay" on the ratification of the Constitution. The voting will take

Dundas Made President Of Education Council

NORTHFIELD, Vt., Oct. 21—Dr. Richard J. Dundas, President of Castleton State College, at Castleton, Vt., today was elected president of the Vermont Higher Education Council. It was the twentieth annual meeting of the Council.

Dr. Max W. Barrows, Deputy Commissioner of the Vermont Department of Education, was re-elected secretary of the Council.

The meeting was held on the campus of Norwich University here, with Maj. Gen. E. N. Harmon, Norwich President and outgoing president of the Council, acting as host.

A new edition of the Council's publication, "The Vermont Colleges," was released for distribution at the meeting. The booklet, listing the 18 colleges and universities in Vermont which are members of the Council, shows two additional institutions since the last edition, published in 1960. The new members are Vermont Technical College, in Randolph Center; and the College of St. Joseph the Provider, in Rutland.

The meeting, at its afternoon session, passed a resolution that "the present system of awarding Vermont Senatorial scholarships is outdated, inequitable, and does not meet the current educational needs of the state."

Popular Survey

by Darien DeLorenzo

A different topic, which we think will be of interest to the student body, the faculty, and the administration, will be discussed in each publication of the Spartan paper. The article will present the opinions, quoted, of various individuals associated with the Castleton campus.

The topic to be discussed in this issue is the LATE HOURS of the girls on campus. The question asked of the following people was as follows: What is your personal opinion of the Late Hours that are imposed upon the girls at Ellis Hall and at Leavenworth Hall?

Mr. Terry Gulick: S. A. Director

"I was rather surprised at the hours for the freshmen (the upperclassmen hours seem to be reasonable). I do not know about the hours for girls at other institutions, thus I am unaware if the ones at C.S.C. are out of line. Basically, I question the 8:00's during the weekdays for the freshmen. The 8:00's may be fine for the first semester (to aid the girls in developing good study habits), but if, by second semester, the girls prove to be trustworthy, both socially and academically, why not extend these weekday hours to 10:00's."

Bob Perry: transfer student from U.N.H.

"I think that the hours for freshmen during the week should be at least one hour later. All hours on weekends, should be equal between freshmen and upperclassmen (12:00 p.m. on Friday and 1:00 a.m. on Saturday)."

Janice Jackson, R.N.: student

"The only change that I would like to see made is the week night hours for freshmen (presently 8:00 p.m.) extended."

Mrs. Clary: Leavenworth House-mother

"If the girls were really interested in, and if they'd stay at the school functions, then I would approve of later hours for them on weekends. There is a small percentage of girls who date consistently every week end; for these girls longer hours would simply mean an extra hour or two over the line, whether or not a school function was taking place.

Another problem, which would be presented if the hours were increased, would be the extra money needed to pay desk aids and housemothers, who would be expected to sit up and wait for the girls to come in. We should not expect one particular housemother to wait the clock out twenty-four hours a day.

Another housemother would have to be employed to carry out the responsibilities during the evening. This would give each individual housemother some free time of her own."

John Ernest: transfer student from the United States Naval Academy

"I think the hours at C.S.C. should be extended at least a half-hour on weekdays and an hour on weekends. This should also apply to places such as Morrill House, Hoppola House, and Ladd House."

Miss Marge Boynton: student

"Most of the hours seem to be quite good, except for Saturday nights, which I think should be extended to 1:00 a.m. If you are old enough to be in college then you should be old enough to regulate your own private time."

Mrs. Bee Pritchard: parent

"Hours during the week, for freshmen are very good. If they could be trusted to stay at some of the functions provided for them, why would they need later hours than they already have?"

Dr. Richard J. Dundas: Castleton State College President

"The late hours for the girls were made up before I came here, therefore, I am not fully acquainted with the reasons for them. The 8:00's for the freshmen on weekdays are intended to put them in the habit of working, perpetuating the parental pressure begun in their homes. The rules concerning the hours are way out of my line, but are certainly open for consideration. They can be studied anytime in a conference between the dorm officers, the dorm housemothers, and the deans of the college. An increase in hours might mean an increase in housemothers per dorm, therefore, this would bring about an increase in cost. I doubt if the boarding students would be willing to pay for an increase in hours."

As an extra added interest to the students I am including a schedule of late hours from a few of the colleges, including Castleton, in the Vermont area.

The College And The Church

by Sally Briscoe

Guest speaker at the Student Christian Association meeting on Monday night, October 14, was a new member on the Castleton faculty, Dr. Douglas K. Stafford. He was introduced by the Rev. Yorke Peeler to a group of about thirty Castleton students. The participants represented a wide variety of religious beliefs.

Previous meetings of the S.C.A. have discussed such topics as: "The Church . . . Is There Room for the Student?"; "Attempts to Define the Church"; "Attempt to Define the College World"; and "Is the Church Against the College World?". They all boiled down to a basic inquiry. The S.C.A. felt that the advice of someone older and wiser would be beneficial. Therefore, Dr. Stafford was asked for his ideas on the question—"Can the Church Find a Place on the College Campus?"

Stafford introduced his subject by stating that this topic was extremely ironical. When the universities were first formed in America, he explained, the question was: "Did the College Have a Place in the Church, and Not in Its Reverse Order as We Know It Today." He then pointed out the hypocritical attitude of the colleges and universities which required chapel credits for the sole purpose of tax evasion.

During the discussion, which involved many students, various shocking and arousing thoughts were brought out. The alarming fact which stood out head and shoulders above the other faults and virtues described was the apathy of the students of today on our own campus as well as others. An obvious proof of this fact is that students in America don't riot. Stafford mentioned that a nice quiet riot might be good for everyone. No one today seems to be willing to stand up and be counted for God's purposes or anyone else's purposes.

The participants, far from being able to defend themselves, divided into two groups, both agreeing with Dr. Stafford's proposition. One sector openly agreed with him; the second section not being able to retort to his bitter accusations, also reinforced his theory. Through the free exchange of ideas, typified by different people and different ideals, each person came away from the meeting more aware of himself and of life around him.

The underlying reason why the previous discussions of the S.C.A. were fruitless in their search for the answers to their questions would stem back to the main point brought out during this discussion. The fact was that the "apathy disease" had even touched the doctors who were looking for the cure. Through the realization of the blight the immunity will build.

Everyone who had attended the meeting felt that an answer had been reached in the realization that the question had been cleared. The S.C.A. is to be congratulated on being the cause of such a program. The Rev. Peeler, the S.C.A. and Dr. Stafford deserve our thanks for their effort. However, many who participated have a valid reason to complain. The discussion was so dynamic that it carried itself into the dorms and continued to show itself in the dark-rimmed eyes and unfinished homework the next day.

This article's initial purpose is to stimulate the thinking minds on campus. We call Castleton a progressing college. If we progress in our education, our faculty, and in the number of buildings, why can't we progress in our rules? I have heard, from reliable sources, that some of the hours that we now have are the same ones they had twenty years ago, when this college was under the title of Castleton Normal School. Just because we are eating with some of the same silverware that they used then, it does not mean that we should go by the rules they used then.

If the administration would like to make any comments concerning the subject matter of this article, we would be glad to print their comments in the next issue of the Spartan, under this same section of the paper.

I would like to thank those who patiently took the time to give me their statements on this subject.

Soccer News

The Spartans, thus far this year have shown great potential but have been beaten in many games because of a lack of scoring punch and a few bad breaks. In varsity competition the Spartans have made an average of 35 attempts per game and have cashed in on only 4 goals thus far.

Coach Terry is pleased with the defense as a whole. Leon Orvis, Spartan goalie, has been outstanding. He has saved 3 out of 4 penalty kicks and has made an average of 18 saves per game.

In the last few meets the Spartans have shown a lot of desire. With the support of the Castleton fans, the Spartans could get in the winning column again. The team has a record of 3-4-1. The season is nearly over and the present record could be improved.

S.N.E.A. Delegates Attend Convention

The S.N.E.A. at Castleton has held two meetings thus far; an organizational meeting attended by over 75 people, and an emergency council to elect two delegates to the S.N.E.A. Regional Convention at Peterborough, N. H., October 11-13. Norita Clemens, Roberta Severy, Sam Pagano and Paul Corologos were chosen to attend.

Over 125 people representing 45 New England colleges were at the Peterborough Conference. The program included many keynote speakers from as far away as Nevada, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. Some of the topics discussed were: What is Professionalism?, Teachers' Role in Society, What is the Difference Between a Job and a Profession?, What Can We as Teachers Hope to Contribute to the Profession?, and the Purpose of S.N.E.A. The Conference was attended also by the President of the National Education Association and the National S.N.E.A. President from Pennsylvania.

On the local scene, Ken Perrotte, Treasurer, reports 28 paid members of S.N.E.A. at C.S.C.—double the membership of last year!

Saturday, October 12, the girls' field hockey team, which consists of Janet Borkman, Shirley Luse, Pam Tothe, Karen Wolfe, Dorothy Boyack, Elizabeth Sabine, Jackie Johnson, Helen Lucas, Sandy Cook, Janis Jackson, and Marianne Lackey, journeyed to Plattsburgh, New York for a Sport's Day. The girls, who were accompanied by Miss Chapla, were defeated by Potsdam, but went on to tie with Plattsburgh and St. Lawrence College. The teams did not play full games, but only fifteen minute contests. After the games, some of the girls went swimming in Plattsburgh's indoor pool.

Thursday, October 17, the team lost to Green Mountain College in Poultney, 5-3. Saturday, November 2, there will be a home game with Vermont College of Montpelier.

Volleyball will soon be underway. According to Miss Chapla, practice will begin after November 3. There is only one game scheduled so far, this to be on Sport's Day at U.V.M., November 9.

Cheerleaders Corner

by Darian DeLorenzo

In case the Spartan Cheerleaders have not been properly introduced to the Castleton students, here they are:

Pam Fisher—captain

Sharon McLeod—co-captain

Pat Quackenbush—secretary

Judy Echo—treasurer

Mary Lou Gallagher

Sylvia Laakso

Ann Bellerjeau

These girls have been working very hard at trying to build up some of the school spirit that seems to have been lost at soccer games. These cheerleaders are not there as sole representatives of C.S.C. Their job is to lead the students, but the students, in turn, should feel that it is their obligation to back up these girls in the support of the team. If the students would participate in the cheers, it would help a great deal in inspiring the team to live up to the expectations of the crowd.

The cheerleaders are planning to have new uniforms for the upcoming basketball season. The up-to-date fashion will consist of green and white, pin-stripe blouses and green corduroy jumpers.

Senate News

John Duval, President

As The Spartan goes to press, the outcome of the Ratification Assembly for the new student government constitution is not known. The new constitution was drawn up at the end of the 1962-1963 school year in an effort to modernize our government and make it more effective. The document was approved for ratification by the Senate in formal meeting on October 8, of this year. It is the consensus of opinion of the Senate that this constitution will make for a better organized and more efficient student government.

This year promises to be a good one for the Senate. Attendance at all meetings has been excellent, and a great deal of enthusiasm has been shown. I realize that this is a little early in the year to be patting people on the back, but I would like to congratulate Susie Summers and her committee chairmen, Dick Singleton and Mary Lou Gallagher, for a nice job done on Homecoming.

To The Class Of '66

We would like to thank each and every one of the members of the sophomore class who worked on their float. Yet, hadn't it been for your spirit and co-operation, the float would never have been the success that it was. Let's keep that spirit when the time rolls around next year.

Special thanks must go to Charlie Wood, our class president, and to Charlie Manchester, who took the responsibility of undecorating the float. Again we thank you, and we hope to see all of you back at work next year.

Penny Armstrong
Peter Marsh

Besides the tedious task of getting the machinery of your government into operation, a good deal of business has already been transacted. The Castleton Literary Club has been recognized by the Senate and appropriated money which will be used to publish a student literary magazine in the spring of the year. Because of the amount of controversy which the Artists Series has caused a special committee has been appointed to fully investigate all sides of the issue. The goal of this committee is to find out what the student wants in the way of entertainment and educational programs. They shall also secure the opinion of the administration. Once they have completed their report it will be presented to the Senate. Once this is done we can act.

Money Wanted?

by Darian DeLorenzo

Any person, or persons, representing a recognized organization, or one of the four classes on campus, wishing to obtain money needed for the payment of bills, MUST procure a Check Request from the president of the organization, or class. This Check Request MUST be signed by either Kathy Ross or John Duval. They in turn will fill out a Purchasing Order which is to be presented to Mr. Gulick, who will also sign the Order. This may be done on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, between 12:30 and 1:00 p.m. Mr. Gulick will then make out a check for the amount needed.

the S.A. for all its organizations and activities has been altered somewhat in order to improve the entire S.A. book-keeping system. A definite time and place has been set up for all business transactions. Every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday noons from 12:30 to 1:00 Mr. Gulick's office will be open for this purpose. At this time all check requests should be brought there for processing. If there is an emergency, funds may be allocated by Mr. Gulick without the S.A. president's or the S.A. treasurer's approval, but this should be avoided if possible.

Leavenworth

Eh'ya.

Salutations, Outsiders!

Leavenworth Hall held their monthly council meeting and the following new councilors were chosen. On the second floor: Sally Shaner, Pat Williams, and Pat Quackenbush; and on third floor: Jan Obey, Sue Summers, and Linda Parker. We also held our second house meeting in which various new ideas were brought to attention—such as the right to use Leavenworth lounge, notes on doors, etc.—(we ran into much opposition!) We do have a new system, nevertheless, a half-warning was adopted for those girls who leave notes on their doors when they are unable to make their beds before classes. (But remember, girls, too many notes on doors and . . .) Mary Lou Gallagher will represent Leavenworth at the Senate and Pam Orr was elected representative to the Women's Athletic Association.

October 16th, we held our annual surprise birthday party for Mrs. Clary, (which turned out to be as much of a surprise to us as to her.)

For the news of the day, see the new "Leavenworth Crier" issued daily, rm. 57.

One last added note—we applaud the humorous, well-performed hilarity of Summs, Orbey, Bellie, Brownie, and Matti in the Variety show.

A house meeting was held recently with Vice-President Norita Clemens presiding. Roll call was taken, secretary's and treasurer's reports read, and business was discussed. During the business procedure, Mary Lull was elected representative to the Women's Athletic Association from Ellis Hall. This concluded most of the business; however, a few precautions were given. Miss Clemens cautioned the girls against talking to visitors below from their windows and removing the screens from their windows. Mrs. Cassin commended the girls on their superior behavior over the Homecoming Weekend.

It was decided that Open House at Ellis Hall would be held the weekend before Thanksgiving vacation. Joyce Austin is volunteer chairman for this occasion.

Some new furniture was recently purchased and has now arrived for our main hall and lounge. Two settees and a stand are now in the hall and the reception desk was re-finished. A tea table was added to the lounge.

On Monday, October 14, the Castleton students were entertained by the Dorian Quintet. Following this presentation, a reception for everyone was held in our lounge.

Constitution Not Ratified

place in the recreation room in Leavenworth Hall.

One amendment was suggested for the Constitution in the event that it is ratified. Last week the officers of the S. A. appointed a student court prosecuting attorney. This was held by a considerable faction of the student body to be unconstitutional. Therefore a suggestion was made that this office should be an elected one. A vote taken on this showed that the majority agreed.

Many commuters pointed out that no notice was given as to what the assembly would be about or where a copy of the Constitution could be obtained. It was also brought up that commuters are not adequately represented in the S. A. Duval said some commuters are members of the S. A. Delegation. He also said that the commuters should attend open Senate meetings and discuss these things there. If some can not make it, he stated, a delegation from the commuters should be appointed to attend such meetings.

The heavily attended meeting proved that there is some spirit alive at Castleton. Though it appeared that some people overdid it a bit, many students offered constructive criticisms and valuable alternatives to make the Student Association a better and more functionary part of Castleton life.

WHAT IS A WEEKEND?

by Sam Pagano

What is a College Weekend? A College Weekend is sweat, fears, laughs, and tears. It is the many little things—the insignificant details that seem to be lacking in reward as far as recognition goes. It's the person who stays and washes dishes when the Pancake Breakfast is over. It's the sixth grade drummer in the Poultney School Band. It's two shivering girls in a homemade float. It's a little of every student who contributed help to make a College Weekend a success. It's happiness in knowing you've been elected Homecoming Queen; yes, and a little bit of sorrow when you've come so close. It's a sunny autumn afternoon mixed with the unpredictable—not always kind—bounce of a soccer ball. It's four floats that are symbolic of what many of us feel Homecoming should be. Mix this with the Alumni who came back to see their former classmates; add to this a giant champagne glass and the few hard working people who turned the gym into something special for one brief night. It's two very hard working co-chairmen who assumed responsibility and deserve the applause as they take their much deserved bow. But most of all, I feel Homecoming is a shining light in the sparkling complexion of a Freshman girl on her first College Weekend.

TERRYMEN TO NATIONALS

GOOD DEFENSE—A white jersey appears over the ball to clear it from the Spartans' side of the field. Via a win over Barrington College in Rhode Island, the Spartans have captured the New England Crown and will travel to Frostburg, Maryland to play in the NAIA finals on November 29 and 30.

by Joe Cleveland
and Darien DeLorenzo

Earlier in the season they said it couldn't be done, but under the leadership of coach Richard Terry the FIGHTING Terrymen have surprisingly qualified for the NAIA soccer finals in Frostburg, Maryland. By winning the final playoff game last Saturday against Barrington College, making it eight consecutive victories, the Spartans have once again captured the New England Crown.

PLAYOFF HIGHLIGHTS

On November 9 the Spartans traveled to Plymouth, New Hampshire, to play Gorham State College in the first NAIA playoff game. The boys played hard and won a close contest by a score of 2-1. Dan Hudson provided both scores for CSC, one in the first period and the other in the third.

Saturday's game was played in Worcester, Mass. against Barrington College from Rhode Island. This was one of the most impressive soccer games played this year. The first score came in the second period as "Buckey" Knisley headed the ball into the goal after an assist by Dave Hartman. Seven seconds later another sudden and unbelievable goal was kicked by Knisley from 15 yards out. In the third period Barrington bounced back with a score by Jim Williamson. This was the only bright moment of the afternoon for Barrington as the Castleton defense preserved the 2-1 score for the Spartan victory.

Coach Richard Terry and the entire Spartan soccer team were congratulated on their tireless efforts immediately following the game by a crowd of Castleton students and faculty on hand to watch the game.

The NAIA finals will be played on the 29th and 30th of November in Frostburg, Md. As of this writing, it is not known which teams will be participating.

The Bonds Of Interest

A TOPIC OF CONTROVERSY

by Jim Mehalick

As many students on this campus know, either by being directly involved, or hearing about it through the "grapevine," an issue of considerable controversy and friction arose among students, drama organizations, and the drama department of Castleton State College. Time and space will not allow for all the pros and cons to be mentioned, so that only the main points will be brought forward in this article.

The controversy arose over the casting of the play, "Bonds of Interest." In this play, persons who were not members of the student body were cast for roles.

One side of this issue took the stand that since these plays were being financed through the funds provided by student activity fees, it was unfair to cast "outsiders" in this play. "Outsiders" refers to those persons who are not students, or who are not paying these fees. It was also felt that there was enough talent among the students on the CSC campus to fill the roles called for. Since enough students did try out for roles in this play, it was argued that the roles should have been filled by these students—placing the more talented and experienced students in the more difficult roles. It was also felt, by a minority of students that prejudice was shown in the selection of the cast. There were many other arguments, mainly centering about these basic points.

It has been pointed out that the main question at hand was not whether these "outsiders" had the ability to perform in these parts, but rather, whether these people were qualified, as non-students, to appear in student productions.

The arguments in defense of the casting were as follows: the director of a production has full control over his casting and is solely responsible for all the events relating to his production, with the cast, as chosen, the play should be a good production, rather than a mediocre production, the productions are meant to be educational in nature, and by having a successful performance, the educational value would be greater, both to students and to the people of the community who attend. One student expressed the opinion that to have "professionals" on the stage gives the "amateurs" a feeling of security. As the arguments ended, a dramatic plea was made that, "the show must go on." With the short time allotted, there wasn't enough time to "work with students who were not experienced." There were other arguments presented also.

On November 14, an open meeting of Delta Psi and the Castleton Players Club was held to give students, and non-students who were interested, an opportunity to voice their opinions. Decisions arrived at during the session were threefold: first, a committee be appointed to draw up an official constitution for the C.P.C. Included in this would be the answers to any future controversy of similar nature which might arise. The second was that a letter be addressed to the director of the current production, informing him of the occurrences at the meeting. The third was that the necessary funds be allotted for this production and the show be allowed to continue.

Many students felt nothing was really accomplished at this meeting.

Popular Survey

by Darien DeLorenzo

This month's survey is concerned with the educational aspects of our college. The PRIME purpose for attending college is to gain an education. The question asked of the following people is DO YOU THINK THAT THE COURSES OFFERED AT CASTLETON STATE COLLEGE QUALIFY THE GRADUATE TO EMPLOY HIMSELF COMPETENTLY IN HIS GIVEN PROFESSION???

Mary Lou Gallagher, senior:

"The Liberal Arts course now being offered to the freshmen and sophomores will certainly award them with a good background in education. The education, or method courses, are often a waste of time, moreover there is a great deal to be desired. Practicing teaching methods in front of other college students is not FULL PROOF, but they do give you the confidence to stand up in front of people and talk, even though it could never place you in the same situations encountered in a regular classroom. When you are out student teaching you use what ever methods fit the situation, along with a certain amount of common sense, therefore, actual student teaching is the best method course. We at Castleton are certainly fortunate that we can go out student teaching in both our junior and senior years."

Dr. Stafford, professor:

"The student should take advantage of the number of courses offered here, if he doesn't, then he is not applying himself as well as possible. The student should major in one particular field, aside from general education."

Linda Marshall, student nurse:

"The present nursing program is an excellent preparation for bed-side nursing. You are given the scientific principles which, when you graduate, you apply to hospital situations. I like the manner in which the classes are conducted. They are not mere lectures, but discussions, in which you can voice your own opinions."

Anonymous student:

"I think that the marking system, concerned directly with student teaching should be left primarily to the co-operating teacher, instead of the observing teacher. Your co-operating teacher obviously observes your teaching methods more often than your observer. Your observer can not possibly get a true observation of your methods, when he, or she, only sees you teach four times out of the six, or nine, weeks that you are student teaching. I also think that the observer should give an advance notice as to when he, or she, is coming to observe. Their job is to help the student, not to see how many things that they can find wrong with a student's methods."

Peter Messina, senior, student teaching:

"I think that some of the courses offered here are acceptable for a Bachelor of Science degree, while others date back to prehistoric times. A physical education, or history major should not be required to take music, art, or any other such subjects. I am not trying to degrade this school, since Castleton has done a great deal for me and other students, but some changes are definitely needed. It is easy for me to say this because I am a student, and thus, am in a position to voice my opinion. The History department, in which I am majoring, is very adequate. It has helped me a great deal in preparing for student teaching. A student gets out of college what he puts into it."

The college from which a student is graduated should present the student with an excellent educational background, nothing less should be expected. If a student does poorly in one college, and well in another, who is responsible for this, the college's educational system, or the student?

To quote Mr. Messina's final statement, "A student gets out of college what he puts into it," but if the college does not offer adequate courses there is not much a student can get out of such courses. Consequently, neither the college, nor student has the right to blame one another for its failures.

This author would like to thank the preceding people who offered to give their statement.

Bonds Of Interest

However, it was stated that among the accomplishments achieved was a dormant organization is being reorganized which can again become a functioning unit of this campus. By allowing the students to voice their opinions at this meeting, it was shown that, given the opportunity, the students at CSC are quite capable and willing to handle a situation in an adult and democratic manner by working through the proper channels. It has also been shown that the students are ready and willing to stand up and defend their rights when they think that they are suffering from injustice.

PERSONAL COMMENT by Jim Mehalick

I would like to take this opportunity to bring out the fact that many persons seem to think that the Castleton Players issue was a personal matter between two certain individuals. This is entirely untrue. Several students,

Circle "K" Charter Night Dec. 11th

The Vice President of the circle "K" club at Castleton State College has stated, "I am proud to be able to say I belong to such an organization."

Circle "K" is being sponsored by The Kiwanis Club of Rutland, Vermont.

The club has been recognized as a service organization, not a social club. This does not mean that the club does not have a social life, however. For instance, the members are planning supper meetings twice a month. The first meeting of this type was held at Prouses Restaurant in Rutland last Wednesday. Charter Night is planned for December 11, 1963.

The club now has twenty-two chartered members. There are also four prospective members waiting to join.

The main objective is to raise money and support a project, an area which the recently formed club is working on.

The Kiwanis Club's representatives to Circle "K" are Bill Goldman and Dick McNamara. Thanks go to these two men for starting the Circle "K" Club here at Castleton. One interesting point is that this is the first Circle "K" Club in Vermont. Approximately 240 colleges across the country have charters of this club.

National Teacher Examinations To Be Held On February 15th

PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY —

College seniors planning to teach school will be able to take the National Teacher Examinations on February 15, 1964. This date for the annual nationwide administration of tests for prospective teachers was announced today by Educational Testing Service, a non-profit agency which also prepares College Board and graduate school admissions tests.

Scores on the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts for employing new teachers, and by several States for granting teaching certificates, or licenses. Some colleges require all seniors preparing to teach to take the tests. Lists of school systems which use the examinations are being distributed by Educational Testing Service to colleges educating teachers.

More than 400 testing centers have been set up throughout the nation for the February 15 examinations. The center closest to Castleton is located at UVM. At the full-day session, future teachers may take the Common Examinations, testing their professional knowledge and general educational background, and one or two of the 13

Optional Examinations, measuring mastery of the subjects they expect to teach. Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on taking the examinations, according to Educational Testing Service.

Bulletins of Information containing registration forms and detailed information about the February 15 administration of the tests may be obtained from James Gilbert, Director of Guidance and Testing, school personnel departments, or directly from: National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. Registration for the tests opens November 1, 1963, and closes January 17, 1964.

Clauson Entertains Capacity Crowd

A capacity crowd was entertained by the celebrated balladeer William Clauson last week at the CSC auditorium. Never before has such interest been shown to an Artist Series performance. Mr. Clauson's superb musical talents captivated nearly 1300 people with both American and foreign songs.

not only members of the drama club and cast, approached a person who holds a somewhat influential office on the campus, and asked him to act as their spokesman and to present their discontent to the proper authorities. This particular person did not want to become involved, and took no action whatsoever until he was approached by several students—within a single hour after the cast list was presented! However, as a duly-elected officer, he found that it was his duty and obligation to carry out their wishes. After he committed himself, it was found that many of the students, most responsible and influential in coercing him to present their objections, had, for various reasons of personal gain, refused to back him up. It seems to me that these persons have traded in their ideals and self-respect, either through fear of reprimand, or as a means of personal glorification and gains. This seems to be giving up one of our prized possessions—the ability to proudly state that we backed up a person who was willing to give of himself to us.

Basketball Outlook

by Joe Cleveland

What can be said about the up-coming basketball season? The team has a lot of potential. The Spartans are not lacking experience. There are six veterans returning to the squad. They are Barry Aldinger and Howard Dewey, Co-Captains; Robert Parro, Joseph Girard, Marty Fitzgerald, and Phil Joachin. The big men for the Spartans who will see a lot of action under the boards are Jim Streeter, 6'4"; and Dennis Wright, 6'6". Other new players who will see plenty of action are Terry Gates, Peter Snelium, and Don Porter.

Dr. Max Cogan, the Spartans' new coach, is cautious about making pre-season predictions. The first game will be played out of town against New England College on December 2nd. Cogan said that all of the new players have been impressive. Two boys who have shown good defensive skill are Phil Marks and Bill Abrahamovich. They both will be eligible to play in February. Cogan feels that the team needs to improve on defense, and all CSC basketball fans hope such will be the case.

Volleyball Sports Day In December W. A. A.

by Diane Paul

On December 14 there will be a Volleyball Sports Day at Castleton. The W.A.A. officers, Mary Jane Bosworth, Karen Wolfe and Linda Beckwith, will organize the event. The participating colleges are Castleton, U.V.M., Plattsburgh and Johnson. This past Saturday the team travelled to U.V.M. for a Volleyball Playday. They whipped the Catamounts in two out of three games, and lost to Middlebury in two out of three contests.

Within the next two weeks the team plays Green Mountain College, but no definite dates have been set. One game will be played here and one will be played in Poultney.

Volleyball practice for those girls who are interested in joining the team or for those who enjoy recreational activity will be held every Tuesday evening at 6:45 and Thursday afternoons at 4:00.

After Christmas vacation basketball practice will begin. The times for the practice sessions will be announced at a later date.

The Muses

The first literary magazine at Castleton State College, to be called "The Muses," will be published in the late spring. The editors for this year are as follows: Peter Marsh, editor and chief; Bonnie Bryant, assistant editor; Joyce Austin, poetry editor; Jane Curtis, prose editor; and Katherine Butterfield, business manager.

The club has been pleased with the amount of literature submitted by interested students. They are, however, hoping that many more students will take an active interest.

The magazine will contain about thirty-two pages of poetry and prose written by students. A few entries by the faculty will also be considered for publication.

Students who wish to have their endeavors considered may turn them into any of the above editors, Professor Edna L. Steeves, or any of the following students: Bunny LaVoie, Barbara Bogan, Gina Hurley, Mick Hall, Jeanne Dixon, Norita Clemens, and Bruce Bender.

Meetings are held on alternate Tuesdays in the Science Hall and everyone is invited to attend.

President Assassinated

by Joe Cleveland

SHOCK . . . ALARM . . . DISBELIEF . . . These were a few of the reactions of people throughout the world upon receiving the news of the President's assassination on Friday, November 22, 1963. Nearly everyone has read about such assassinations in history books, but still it is difficult to believe that such a disaster could possibly take place in our free, modern society.

"Ask not what your country can do for you . . . ask what you can do for your country." President Kennedy has done much for the country, indeed—much for the world. However, President Kennedy's work toward world peace must be continued; we must put our faith in President Johnson.

Reactions from CSC students: Seeley Morton: "I thought it was the most atrocious action ever committed by a civilized being."

Mike Bove: "We will, perhaps, have other presidents able to fill the office as well as JFK did . . . but none in the manner he could have, had he lived."

Charles Smith: "The assassination of President Kennedy is the worst happening of our time and the person or persons responsible should be punished to the fullest extent of the law."

Student Enters Contest

by Kathy Young

Presently in Florida, a National painting competition is being held. From fifteen hundred entries, approximately one to two hundred will be accepted for exhibit.

For the first time, a student from Castleton State College has entered this competition. Carol Greenwood, a junior, has shipped one of her paintings to Florida for judging. Miss Greenwood's painting, "Hokkaido," has been priced at three hundred dollars.

A ten dollar entrance fee and shipping charge had to be paid, but if the painting is accepted, the shipping charge will be paid back; if not accepted, the five dollar entrance fee will be refunded.

If Miss Greenwood's painting enters competition, she has a chance to win some of the prize money, which is: first prize—$500; second prize—$300; and third prize—$100.

Some of the guest speakers and discussion leaders included John T. Fey, President of U.V.M.; Russell H. Peck, Harvard Law School; Nils Y. Wessell, President of Tufts University; Charles W. Duhig, Brandeis University; Gilbert C. Garland, Northeastern University; and Rev. Royal J. Gardner, O.P., Providence College. Several topics of interest to Admissions officers and registrars were discussed. Some of the themes were, "The Future Direction and Development of NEACRAO," "The Registrar and The Law," "The Whys, Wherefores and Future of Early Decision," and "Old Admissions Officers Never Die."

Miss Black returned to Castleton Friday afternoon after a closing luncheon.

Yearbook Progress

Darien DeLorenzo

The first deadline for the Castleton yearbook was the eighteenth of November. The forty pages due were sent to the American Publishing Company in Cambridge, Maryland. Mr. Stan Sankowski, a representative of the American Publishing Co. from Burlington, has been very helpful to the yearbook staff. The editors for the yearbook are as follows:

Ed Garron—editor-in-chief
Virginia Herley—literary editor.
Sharon Considine—layout editor.
Linda Hollis—art editor.

The staff is working with great determination to compose a successful yearbook. The students on campus should expect many improvements in the format this year.

CSC Student To Attend 4-H Congress In Chicago

by Leslie Batten

Mitchell A. Dondero, a C.S.C. student, has been chosen as one of the Vermont delegates to the National 4-H Congress at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, December 1-5. He was chosen as a cash crop delegate, because of his work with strawberry crops and other activities.

Delegates will take tours of the city and attend a concert and banquets. Awards will be presented for outstanding 4-H accomplishments.

DORM NEWS

Leavenworth

The girls of Leavenworth held a house meeting, Wednesday, November 5, with president Marylou Gallagher presiding. The foremost discussion was the forthcoming open-house to be held on Sunday, December 15. Many different and interesting suggestions were made to guarantee a good time for everyone attending this festive event.

At this meeting, it was also decided that Leavenworth would follow the example of other dorms and sororities and have a ceremony honoring a girl who has been pinned or become engaged. It seems that this was accepted just in time for Pat Quackenbush, who was the first to initiate this system (in Leavenworth). Congratulations, Pat!—By the way, there are a few girls around the dorm who are wishing their boyfriends would take the hint.

There has been an "exchange" of senior girls throughout the dorm because of student teaching. While losing Roberta Less and Sandy Moore we have gained Francine Rohn and Roberta Dalmano. A welcoming back party was held following the house meeting with cider and doughnuts enjoyed by all.

C.S.C. STUDENT TO ATTEND 4-H CONGRESS IN CHICAGO

Dondero, a freshman from Sunderland, has been a craft instructor-counselor, has participated in demonstrations, attended field days and 4-H State Day, and has attended the Eastern States 4-H Roundup in Springfield, Mass. He is a member of the 4-H Honorary Society.

On campus, Dondero is a charter member of the Circle K Club.

The bewildered freshmen, who thought they knew all the upperclassmen, were confronted with a barrage of new faces and names as the Senior Student teachers returned to campus last week. At the same time an exodus took place among the seniors who had been taking 9-week courses. If the freshmen are confused now, wait until February when the school is full to capacity with all four classes.

Second floor certainly put a great deal of time and effort into making ready their welcome for these new faces. Warnings were posted on the entrance doors, along with other signs. Dimmed and colored lights, signs all over, and hand- and footprints silhouetted on the walls were only a few of the added attractions. "Is this where we used to live?" Yes, girls, it's the same as ever (for the present!).

At the monthly house meeting which was presided over for the first time by returning president, Fran Cizmadia, it was decided that two girls, an upperclassman and a freshman, would meet with the councilors to propose new hours for the house. These petitions will be voted upon by the house and if the two-third's majority is reached, they will be relayed to the administration for consideration and we HOPE, approval.

A second candlelight ceremony was held in the lounge, as Marcia Zacheus received that long-awaited diamond. Shortly after school resumed, Cathi Dwire was showered with these congratulations.

International Relations Club

by Jeanne Sihler

An invitation from Johnson State College has been extended to the faculty and students of Castleton to visit a Pre-Hispanic Exhibition of Mexican and Central American culture now on display there.

This Pre-Hispanic Exhibition depicts the civilization of the native peoples who lived in the southern and eastern parts of present day Mexico and the mountainous areas of Guatemala and Honduras prior to the arrival of the Spanish. It is designed to explain the culture of these native peoples through a study of their architecture, technology in construction of pyramids, art, religious and social organization. This Pre-Hispanic Exhibition has been brought to the United States for a two-year tour of college and university museums by the Smithsonian Institution and the organization of the American States.

The exhibition contains color transparencies, charts, maps, photographs, murals and casts of Mayan faces.

The Pre-Hispanic Exhibition will be shown at Chesamore Hall at Johnson State College from now to December 12, 1963, during the following hours:

Weekdays: 9:00-12:00 noon, 1:00-5:00 P.M., 7:00-9:00 P.M.

Saturdays and Sundays by request only.

Any interested parties should settle upon a certain date and time when they wish to view this exhibition and contact Professor Robert Alden Ellsworth, Faculty Adviser, International Relations Club, Johnson State College.

Comedy Opens Dec. 12

by Mike Bove

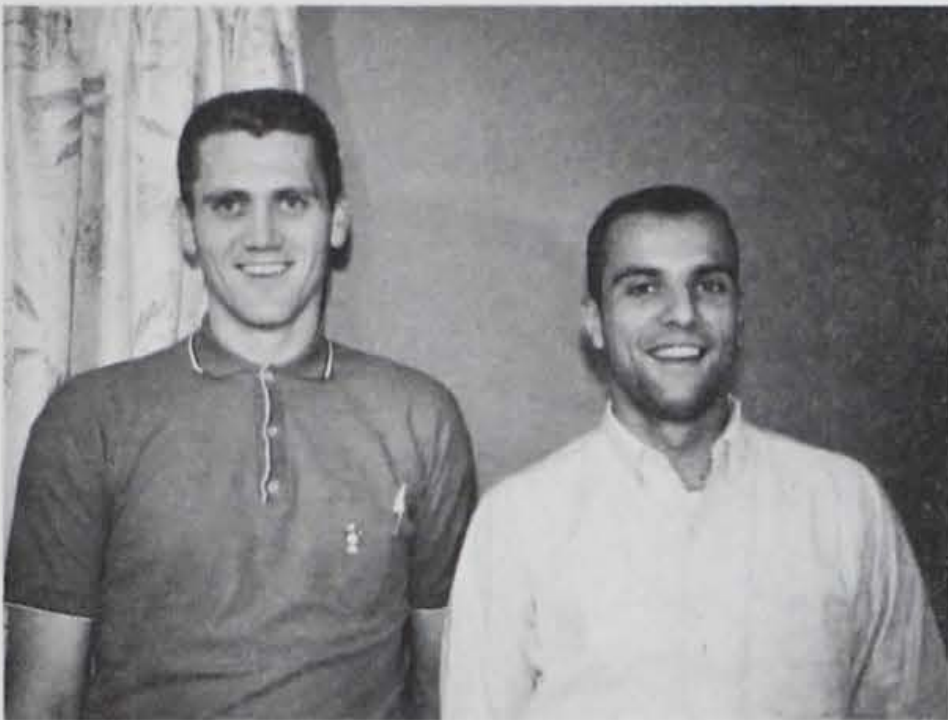

The Bonds of Interest, under the direction of Mr. Byron G. Avery, will be staged by the Castleton Players on December 12 and 13 in Woodruff Auditorium. The play, a very entertaining farce, is done in the manner of the old Commedia dell'Arte. It was written in 1907 by Jacinto Benevente, a prominent Spanish playwright. Bruce Brender is in the vital role, that of Crispin, the villain and servant of Leander, played by David Lucia. DON'T MISS IT!

Castleton State College, Castleton, Vt., December 4, 1963

Lee and Pete

AN INITIAL VICTORY

In its bid for the N.A.I.A. Soccer Crown, at Frostburg, Maryland, Castleton State College gained an initial victory over defending champions, East Stroudsburg (Pa.) College. With a driving rain throughout the first half and a mixture of sleet and snow in the second half, the game was played in defiance of nature's authority, as a spirited Castleton team struck for both its goals in the third period. Assisted by Bucky Knisley, Steve Hazen scored the Spartan's first goal on a hard shot from 45 feet in front of the goal. Dave Hartman's corner kick assisted Mark

Mooney with a goal, as Mark tapped in the loose ball for the second victorious goal.

During the last period, Dave Heppe scored East Stroudsburg's lone goal in an attempt at a comeback. From this point on a confident Castleton defense withstood a determined Stroudsburg offense. This INITIAL victory alone enabled the Spartans to surpass last year's bid for the N.A.I.A. crown. Last year the Spartans placed third. This year they share the honors of first place. Next year—who knows!—Sole possession?—Possibly!!!

Team Praised

by John Duval

Last weekend, when most of us were home recovering from acute indigestion, a talented and highly spirited soccer team did something that no other team in any of the major sports carried at Castleton has done before. It won a national tournament.

In becoming co-owners of the 1963 N.A.I.S. soccer crown along with Earlham College of Indiana, Coach Richard Terry's booters had an uphill fight all the way. An individual championship plaque will be given to both Earlham and Castleton.

My hat is off to you men. Your school is proud of you.

Soccer Party!!!

This coming Thursday there will be a soccer party held in honor of the Castleton State College N.A.I.A. Co-champions. The party will be held at Sbardella's from 7:30 to 11:00.

Lee Orvis: MVP

The MOST VALUABLE PLAYER award of the 1963 N.A.I.A. Soccer Tournament was awarded to LEE ORVIS. It was one of the few times in N.A.I.A. history that the MVP award has been given to a defenseman. Orvis has always played an outstanding game at the goal, but in this game he was superb! For 88 minutes Orvis was knee deep in mud. Disheartening a driving East Stroudsburg offense, Orvis came through with a series of brilliant saves (20 in all), most by driving attempts. One gallant sequence of events came towards the end of the first half as Orvis knocked off four tries by E. Stroudsburg in a matter of seconds. By the end of the game the soccer star was CAKED with mud from head to toe, but this CAKE was FROSTED by the coveted plaque of the MVP award. Ken Babcock, Frostburg soccer coach and tournament director, termed Lee's performance as "one of the best I've ever seen in the 25 years of coaching."

TOURNEY AWARDS

Lee "MVP" Orvis and Pete "Prima" Messina were selected to be members of the 1963 N.A.I.A. Soccer Tournament Team. Lee's brilliant saves at the goal and Pete's "quiet (?) leadership" on offensive play were principal influences on a team that was determined to WIN.

HONORABLE MENTION

were selected for the second All-Tourney team which is composed of players who have been given Honorable Mention.

SOCCER CAREERS COME TO END

Messina and DeLorenzo played their last game Friday, November 26, following quite successful careers. Both boys have been adequately rewarded for their honorable, incessant, and impressive effort on the soccer field. The Spartans will certainly miss their "stirring" presence.

SPARTAN BOOTERS --- VINTAGE 1963

by Art DeLorenzo

Bewildered by a loss of seven starters from the 1962 New England Champion team and consolation winners at Richmond, Indiana, Coach Richard Terry maneuvered, replaced, shuffled, and finally after losing four and tying one, came up with a formula that eventually led to the NO. 1 spot in the country. Returning to the 1963 edition of the Spartans were Bucky Knisley, Dan Hudson, Mark Mooney, and Lee Orvis. At first glance this fall, it looked as though Castleton's version of Colonel Marion (Swamp Fox) would have plenty of candidates from which to choose from. But as destiny prevailed a turnout squad of 32 (largest ever) eventually dwindled down to a meager 21. Even the first Pep Rally was a disastrous flop—team spirit was never at a lower level.

The opening game of the season found Castleton against powerful Howard University (1961 N.A.I.A. Champs). It was surprising to see how many fans turned out, but we all knew why. It wasn't because they thought we would win—it was to see how good this Howard club was. As the game grew older the fans began to realize that the Green and White were definitely in the ball game—and in fact were beating the blue-clad opposition at almost every turn. But skill prevailed as the Spartans went down to defeat by a score of 2-0. Obviously this was not the right formula. Next came Fitchburg, but again it was a setback of 2-0 that stalled the victory hungry booters. Shots were poured at the goal time and time again only to be denied entrance by the hand of Lady Luck. North Adams was next. We had to beat them—everybody does. But we didn't and for the third straight time and probably the most humiliating of all, we lost 2-0. Forty-three shots were driven at the North Adams goal but not one found its mark. At this point most teams would have thrown in the towel but the Green and White came back and finally dumped Johnson State 3-0. If this wasn't a moral victory there never was one. The feeling of victory did not last long though as we tied Plymouth 1-1 and then lost a heart breaker to St. Michael's 1-0. One meager win in six attempts was the best the Spartans could boast. This was surely the blackest day in mentor Dick Terry's career.

With half the season over and still no winning competition on the field, Coach Terry moved Dave Lucia to LH and put junior Dan Hudson at CF. Leroy Ingram moved over to the RI position, leaving Dave Hartman at LW, Mike Kingsbury at LI, Buck Knisley at RW, Steve Hazen at CH, Pete Messina at RH, myself at LF, Bruce Wright at RF and Lee Orvis in the goal. This group, with the exception of Mark Mooney (started at LW in the playoffs and final), as it started the nine game winning streak at Lyndon with a 2-0 victory, would eventually go all the way to the top. But let's not jump the gun. After the Lyndon game we encountered a strong Norwich team but they, too, succumbed to the fired-up spirit of the Spartans, 4-0. North Adams was at bat again but down they went, 3-1, as they played their usual brand of soccer. The next team we played should probably be the proudest in New England, for they penetrated our offensive-minded-defense four times, while we belted eight into Windham's goal. An overrated Keene team was the next Spartan objective, and they were disposed of by a 5-1 score. This left only "them — Rhode Island Reds." The score of that one was 6-2 and almost unbelievably a 1-4-1 record was transformed into a 7-4-1 record.

What was next? Could we possibly get into the Tournament? The chances were slim and most of us realized this immediately, but we hung on to the only shroud of hope for everything it was worth. As it turned out luck was in our favor. Nichols College was not accredited, this enabling us to get into the 5-team playoff. We would play Gorham while Quinnipac was playing Barrington. The winner of that game would play Fitchburg and the winner of our game would play that winner. All this planning was wasted, however, as Quinnipac dropped out for financial reasons and an administration problem caused Fitchburg to decline also. We still had to play Gorham, and we did. The game was close, but thanks to Dan Hudson and his two goals (the latter a hair weaker than the first) that found their marks, we departed from Plymouth a 2-1 victor. Next was Barrington and to cheer us on was the same crowd of loyalists that cheered us on at Plymouth. We sure had some great backing from you fans. Back to the Barrington game. The first quarter found us defending against a four man line and a strong wind, but thanks to some real hustling by Steve, Bruce and Yabba, we held them off. In the second quarter that skinny right wing, Buck Knisley, slammed two by the goal posts within seven seconds of each other to send us on to Frostburg.

The rest of this story can be read on the front page. The trip—E. Stroudsburg—the weather—Lee and Pete, etc. What you can't read, though, was the spirit and determination of each individual to give his utmost for a common cause—to WIN for the team. When one man was beat another was right there to help. This kind of effort and leadership of Dick Terry brought us home a WINNER.

CASTLETON GRADUATES 90

CASTLETON, Vt.—Ninety Castleton State College students will receive degrees on Sunday, June 7, and 10 of them will be the first graduates of the nursing program initiated at CSC two years ago.

U. S. Rep. Robert T. Stafford (R-Vt.) of Rutland will be the Commencement speaker, Dr. Richard J. Dundas, CSC president, announced.

Eighty of the graduates will receive bachelor of science degrees in education and the prospective nurses will be awarded associate degrees in nursing.

Commencement exercises are scheduled for 3:00 p.m. in the gymnasium-auditorium, with a reception for faculty, graduates and guests to follow. A luncheon for graduates and their families will precede the exercises, in Leavenworth Dining Hall.

The invocation at Commencement will be by the Rev. William Crawford of Castleton.

A brass ensemble, conducted by Richard Diehl of the CSC Music Department, will provide commencement music. The prelude will be the choral prelude "Es ist ein Ros'entsprungen" by Johannes Brahms. Charles Gounod's Grand March from "The Queen of Sheba," specially arranged by Diehl, will be played during the processional.

The Castleton Anthem, by Robert Aborn, chairman of the CSC Music Department, will be played during the recessional.

Commencement activities will begin Sunday, May 31, at 8:00 p.m. in Woodruff Hall auditorium with baccalaureate services, featuring an address by the Rev. Raymond C. Maloney, curate at St. Raphael's Church in Poultney, Vt. A candle lighting service will follow at 9:30 p.m., also in Woodruff Hall.

The President's Assembly is scheduled for Friday, June 5, and the annual Alumni Luncheon is scheduled for Saturday, June 6, at 12:30 p.m. in Leavenworth Dining Hall.

The associate degree curriculum in nursing consists of courses in English, psychology, social science and natural science taught by professors on the college campus. Specialized intensive courses in fundamentals of nursing, maternal and child health nursing, psychiatric nursing and medical-surgical nursing are taught by the college nursing faculty using hospital facilities as a clinical laboratory.

The program, designed for completion in two academic years with a summer session after the first year, is in cooperation with the nearby Rutland (Vt.) Hospital and the Brattleboro Retreat.

The bachelor of science degrees will be granted in junior high and elementary education.

Castleton State College, the oldest institution of higher learning now existent in the State of Vermont, was founded in 1787 as a "County Grammar School." Now, with its education and nursing programs, it has an enrollment of nearly 600. It is an accredited, four-year co-educational college in west central Vermont.

A two-year terminal or transfer liberal arts program has been established which eventually will provide the foundation for a baccalaureate degree at Castleton in a limited number of fields other than education.

Plans have been approved by the Board of Trustees of the Vermont State Colleges, Inc. to provide for an orderly growth of Castleton to an enrollment of 660 students by 1965 and to 1,000 by 1970. Facilities called for include new dormitories for men and women, a dining hall, auditorium, library, several classroom buildings and an addition to the Science Building, as well as faculty housing.

Candidates for the bachelor of science degree are Barry James Aldinger of Jericho, Vt.; Richard Armond Beriau of Pittsford, Vt.; Joseph Michael Bioty of 9 Avenue D, Rutland, Vt.; Judith Ann Borman of 92 McKinley St., Nutley 10, N. J.; Marjorie Ruth Boynton of Slayton Terrace, Woodstock, Vt.; Joseph Edward Brillon of North Bennington, Vt.; Sally Reed Briscoe of 43 Green Road, West Nyack, N. Y.; Henry James Burnham of South Wallingford, Vt.; Laura Emily Carner of Ray Hill, Wilmington, Vt.; Frances E. Cizmedia of Orwell, Vt.;

In Retrospect The 63-64 House of Delegates

by John H. Duval

It is not easy, in a few short lines, to summarize a year of student government activity. As might be expected I look back on it with mixed emotions. In the machinery of student government I think we made significant advances. I also think we did much towards furthering and strengthening the position of the student body on this campus as a whole.

In working towards more active student participation in student undertakings on a state and national level we failed miserably. We managed to maintain our isolationist policy and remained an island unto ourselves. If we don't begin soon to sit up and take notice of what is going on around us it will probably be too late. We are, in a sense, cheating ourselves out of the most valuable part of our extracurricular life in college—a national and international society in the making. We are the only college, for instance, in this state and most of the country, to show little or no interest in The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library. For this I am ashamed.

In closing I would like to give the inevitable advice born from a year at the helm of our student government. The following remarks are not meant as a direct attack on Mr. Charles Gulick. He has executed the office he was hired for with efficiency and real interest. But, the office of Coordinator of Student Activities is one of the most unnecessary institutions I have seen on any college campus. Advice is necessary but a boy scout leader is not. Part of the trouble around here is that you, the students, have everything done for you. Oh sure, it is easier, but what the devil are you getting out of it? Half the organizations which the S. A. supports are "dead wood." A certain sum paid in at the beginning of each year in the form of an activity fee is good. It would allow the students to bring major activities to this campus and support strong athletic teams. Much of that thirty-five dollars is not only unnecessary, but it is being wasted. Girl Scouts selling cookies are learning more, accomplishing more, and doing more for themselves than most of the students on this campus are doing in their outside activities.

Happy Vacation!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Since The Spartan holds an influential position on campus, it should contain subjects which are vital to the entire student body of Castleton State College. Because the students here are, for the most part, intent upon gaining further knowledge, the library is a necessary institution for research and reference. Unfortunately, much work is futile in our library at the present time. More and more frequently, books are disappearing from the shelves. Magazines not made relatively permanent by micro-film have been taken from the shelves so often that on one source's shelf only three of a large stack remain. The price or subject matter of the literature doesn't make any difference to the apparent thieves as long as the book or periodical is up-to-date and on a reference shelf.

Although a librarian is on duty throughout all library hours, he cannot possibly watch every person in order to determine whether or not any books are stolen. One of the complications for the librarian is that students may and do use their own books in the library as well as ones which belong to the school. Another reason for the ease of theft is that many rows of shelves in corners or secluded areas of the library screen any possible misdeeds.

Clearly, this situation must not continue any longer. The school cannot afford to buy replacements of the many stolen expensive references and is not able to buy duplicate copies of some writings. The faculty and the student body cannot lose these writings without losing respect of people inside and outside college circles.

ASKING AROUND

by Judi Kamberg

In this day of advancement in the space program, advancement in medicine, and advancement in the field of education, what advancements do you feel you would like to see Castleton make?

Dave Lucia: "I think in the very near future, unless some drastic changes come about, Castleton will lose its accreditation because of the lack of library facilities."

Fran Rohm: "I would like to see new facilities for research, more elective courses, and a broader scope of subject matter offered. Along with this goes professors to cope with this challenge."

Mary Jane January: "How about some more foreign languages . . . German and Spanish for example."

Mike Gavin: "I think a continuance of the excellent policies currently being pursued is sufficient."

Sharon McLeod and Donna Porter: "An evident advancement towards the development of new dorms, or whatever the developmental fee is for, should take place."

Ron Butterfield: "The college could advance by the construction of new buildings, the incorporation of new courses into the curriculum, the amendment of old rules to fit in with the 20th century, and new dorms for the men in order to create better harmony and spirit among the guys on campus. I also feel that with the expanding number of students at Castleton, this school will need a student union building. If this is not brought about, crowded conditions in the present rec room will be deplorable."

Joe Girard: "There should be dorms for the boys and more participation in school sponsored activities on behalf of the students."

Mike Bove: "What! No. C.S.C. doesn't need any improvements or new buildings. It's big enough, too big. Satisfaction is a well-baked fig newton, and you don't want sugar frosting on a well-baked fig newton."

Briefly reviewing the desires of the students, they would like an expansion of the library, curriculum, and buildings on campus. Also, a lack of student participation and recreational facilities are present, and they are hoped to soon be fulfilled.

STUDENTS TO GET NEW LOUNGE

The discontent among the students, in not being able to find a quiet place in which to sit, chat and relax, has finally been resolved. A committee headed by Sue Summers, Social Rec Chairman, and Ron Butterfield has finally decided to turn the old cloakroom into a new lounge. The old wooden lockers will be eliminated, and anyone that needs a locker may purchase a metal locker in the Registrar's office. The coat racks will be placed in the Rec Room against the west wall.

The room will be painted beige and the floors cleaned and waxed. A rug, couches, lamps, and stuffed chairs will be purchased, and placed in the new lounge.

The lounge will be open only certain hours of the day, and no food is permitted in the lounge. This room is to be treated as your very own living room, and anyone caught abusing the new lounge will be turned into Student Court.

In other news concerning Social Rec, the damaged ping pong table will be removed, and the committee is looking around for an old pool table. If anyone knows of any such source, the committee would be very grateful for any information.

The damaged walls were repaired and repainted, for the third time, over Easter vacation. Any further damage done to this room will mean this room being locked permanently, and turned into a room for a better purpose other than recreation, namely, offices of the Student Association and school newspaper.

The mysterious disappearance of the furniture in the Rec Room is the result of constant abuse by certain individuals. The furniture will not be repaired until this summer, and at a sizable amount of money to the Student Association. This is your money and if you want to keep investing it in reupholstering, then keep ripping it up! It's only MONEY!

If there are any other ways in which Social Rec can improve our facilities for YOU, we are more than willing to help out. The only thing we ask is that you treat the facilities which are provided as if they were your very own.

Is this not a vital issue for all teachers and students who receive the school paper? Is it not important to incorporate issues in The Spartan which are serious or even unpleasant as well as the usual bland assortment of ideas if the need arises?

Spartan Trackmen 5th In Conference

Coach Max Cogan's hardworking track and field team scored 15 points in the New England Conference meet held in Providence, Rhode Island on May 16. High flying Don Porter led the team by winning the high jump with 5'10". Al Ball heaved the shot for a third place, and was fourth in the 100 yard dash. Paul Tracy ran third in the half mile. Fourth place winners were: Pat Buckley, pole vault; Fred Roberts, two-mile; Mike Bove, 220 low hurdles; Wally Lorimer, broad jump.

Al Ball was selected by teammates to receive the white letter. Buckley and Roberts were elected co-captains.

The team, though only ten strong, made respectable showings against Plattsburg, Lyndon, and in an N.A.I.A. meet in New Britain, Conn. Others greatly helping the team were Bob Perry, Jack Schnorr, and Roger Woodruff.
